

To whom it may concern,

I am writing to indicate my support of and service from my radio station which uses the FM translator service. The relatively new broadcast service, Low Power FM (LPFM), should not be allowed to expand the service in a way that would allow these LPFM stations to take priority over current FM translator service.

Along with my family and friends, I enjoy listening to our local K-LOVE station. K-LOVE has served us as residents in our local community by discussing local as well as national interests. Their announcements and services highlight local events from weather warnings to civic and cultural happenings. And still they are broad enough to keep perspective as I learn of things happening outside of my area.

My neighborhood would suffer if K-LOVE were to be displaced by an LPFM broadcaster providing other programming. To lose an important forum like this would gag the groups and communities who use K-LOVE. I would not be able to help or to be helped when tragedy strikes. The people and their efforts focus on areas generally not publicized by other media outlets.

I believe that the service provided by K-LOVE is in the public interest. Compared to the jocks on the airwaves fined and reprimanded recently by the FCC, I can trust K-LOVE to be safe when my wife and two little children listen. I don't have to worry and I can trust K-LOVE. The messages and partners of K-LOVE care and work hard to help me and my family.

Thank you.
